NEWS FROM TOWER HAMLETS COUNCIL AND YOUR COMMUNITY

Mayor launches fair housing plan

BY MICHAEL DIOP

A GROUP of experts have been brought together by Mayor John Biggs to promote the delivery of genuinely affordable housing in the borough.

With a chronic shortage of housing, rising rental costs and many low-income residents, Tower Hamlets has become an increasingly expensive place to live. The council aims to deliver genuinely affordable housing and is doing its best to ensure residents are not 'priced out' of Tower Hamlets.

The Housing Policy and Affordability Commission will be chaired by cabinet member for strategic development Cllr Rachel Blake.

It will meet over the next three months to take evidence from residents, housing providers and experts on what genuinely affordable housing could look like.

Initial research for the panel has found that a household, comprising two working parents earning an average income, with two children of junior school age, living in a so-called 'affordable rent' home, could spend nearly half their income on housing costs.

As a result, some may have to claim housing benefit to make ends meet.

All meetings will be open to the public and held at the Town Hall in Mulberry Place.

The first takes place at 6pm on Wednesday, December 16.

with dances, parties and a free community dinner Family invites 100 to share Christmas feast

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

If you are expecting a big family group for dinner this Christmas, spare a thought for a Bow family planning a feast for 100.

Seventeen-year-old Abdullah Khan, his sister Zeenat Baig, 26, and a troop of volunteers consisting of family, friends, neighbours, parents at Old Ford School and businesses in and around Old Ford Road, have organised the dinner for people who are homeless, needy or isolated.

Taking place at Francis Lee Community Centre, Hawthorn

Avenue, E3 on Monday, December 21, the event has taken months to plan.

Zeenat and her family, who have lived in the area for more than 20 years, say they want to bring people together and support those in need.

“We just want to do something to make people happy,” she said.

Abdullah told East End Life: “Christmas is a time for family, a time of joy and of giving. Sadly, many people right on our doorstep do not have any of these comforts so we have decided to host this event. It will be a Christmas do, a get-

More than 40 volunteers have offered to cook.

Businesses supporting the event include the Roman Road Pound Shop, which donated disposable plates, water and juice, and Al Amin Butchers, Roman Road, which is providing the chicken.

Fundraising cake sales have already taken place and donations are also being collected towards the cost of the day.

Zeenat said any surplus would go to homelessness charity Crisis.

The community Christmas dinner is from 2-5pm and open to all. Just turn up on the day.

The sun shines on tea dancers

OLDER residents danced the afternoon away at the council's annual Christmas concert and tea dance.

Over-50s got dressed up and enjoyed music, tipples, mince pies and good company at the Arts Pavilion in Mile End Park on Wednesday, December 9.

One resident said: “What a fantastic event. Everyone had fun, even if you couldn't dance. Thanks for organising it.”

A carer who attended added: “It was such a great experience. More of these activities are needed.

“It's a lonely life being a carer. This event helps one connect to the community.”

Live music was provided by top London jazz and swing

Dancing to the tune of the Sunshine Kings band the Sunshine Kings. And while the musicians took a break, dance leader Tony Lane guided dancers through steps, swirls and classic moves.

Cllr Asma Begum, cabinet member for culture, said: “The Christmas tea dance is much loved by those that attend.

“It's a great way for older residents to get into the festive spirit by tripping the light fantastic.”

Mayor John Biggs wished all residents celebrating a very happy Chanukah.

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM SIR JOHN CASS RED COAT SCHOOL

Ofsted have decided that Sir John Cass Red Coat “is an outstanding school”

We are delighted to share with parents and the Tower Hamlets community some of the outcomes of the recent Ofsted inspection of our school. The report will be published on the Ofsted website on Thursday 10th December 2015. HMI have decided that Sir John Cass Red Coat “is an outstanding school”

By way of preparing a digest, school managers have compiled a list of quotes taken directly from the report under the appropriate headings:

Summary of key findings for parents and pupils: “This is an outstanding school”

- “The headteacher, supported by the other senior leaders, has driven improvement relentlessly to bring about rapid change. At the same time leaders have ensured that high-quality teaching and outstanding achievement have been sustained.”
- “The governing body knows the school well. It is very supportive but also rigorous in checking and challenging leaders to ensure high quality of welfare and outcomes for pupils.”
- “Personal development, welfare and behaviour are outstanding. Pupils are extremely enthusiastic about their learning, are keen to achieve well and conduct themselves with great maturity.”
- “The curriculum is especially well designed so that pupils learn in pathways that are best suited to their needs.”
- “Pupils’ outstanding outcomes are directly attributable to the outstanding quality of teaching, learning and assessment, and progress tracking.”
- “Teachers plan their lessons exceptionally well so that they build pupils’ secure knowledge and understanding in interesting and varied ways. By the end of Year 11, pupils make outstanding progress in English and mathematics and consistently achieve above national averages. Disadvantaged pupils, those with SEN and the most able all achieve exceptionally well.”

Effectiveness of leadership and management is outstanding

- “The leadership of safeguarding is exemplary.” “The school is now rightly seen by the LA as a model of good practice”
- “The outstanding curriculum is balanced with strong focus on English and mathematics alongside a broad range of academic and vocational subjects. Pupils are guided to appropriate pathways which ensure equality of opportunity and the best life chances through academic success.”
- “The quality of pupils’ social, moral, spiritual and cultural development is outstanding and at the heart of the school’s work. Learning about other faiths, cultures and fundamental British values is central in helping pupils to have a sense of community and respect for diversity. High expectations of mutual respect and courtesy promote the school’s inclusive values. Daily routines such as the use of classical music to mark lesson times, assemblies and the morning prayers provide shared moments and build a sense of belonging. These aspects, coupled with pupils’ academic achievement and personal development, prepare pupils exceptionally well for life in modern Britain. A parent exemplified this by saying, ‘I am overwhelmed by what the school has done for my child.’” “Teaching, learning and assessment are of the highest quality”

Quality of teaching, learning and assessment is outstanding

- “Pupils benefit from high quality and energetic teaching across the curriculum. Teachers’ enthusiasm and commitment for every pupil to succeed is infectious, creating highly positive classroom learning environments. Teachers have high expectations of what pupils can achieve.”
- “Pupils find activities interesting and varied. Resources for teaching are well designed and are used effectively across all lessons supporting effective teaching.”
- “The school has high expectations for the presentation of pupils’ work. Most pupils and teachers rise to this challenge, with books showing high quality work.” Parents are overwhelmingly positive about the quality of teaching and the progress that their children make. Concentration levels are high and pupils work with purpose and determination in lessons.”

Personal development, behaviour and welfare is outstanding

- “Pupils’ well-being and welfare is at the heart of the school. They thrive in the school’s caring and welcoming ethos where everyone is valued. The school’s exceptional focus on British values and pupils’ spiritual, moral, social and cultural development is underpinned by developing in them a strong sense of community and belonging.” “They show exemplary tolerance and respect for each other, regardless of faith, background or ability”
- “From the time they join the school, usually in Year 7 or 12, pupils’ aspirations are raised about what they can do and achieve. Throughout their time at the school, pupils are provided with very good advice and guidance through, for example work experience and career days enabling them to find out for themselves about the choices open to them. As a result, almost all pupils become highly ambitious to continue their studies at post-16.”
- “The behaviour of pupils is outstanding. Pupils have outstandingly positive attitudes to learning and their behaviour in lessons, and around school, is exemplary. They show courtesy and respect for the diversity of their peers and staff and act with great maturity.”
- “The ... high expectations for behaviour... are replicated by staff and clearly explained to pupils. Consequently, they understand what is expected of them. They are clear about the sanctions to be taken if these standards are not met, which they view as fair.”
- “Relationships throughout the school are very positive. Older pupils, particularly those in the sixth form, help out younger ones and provide first class role models. “
- “Pupils attend well because they see this as an important ingredient for successful learning. There is rigorous follow up of any whose attendance falls below the school’s high expectations.” “Pupils’ exceptional punctuality to school and lessons reflects their keenness to learn and prepares them well for the world of work”

Outcomes for pupils are outstanding

- “For several years, the school has consistently ensured that a well above average proportion of pupils gain five or more GCSEs at A* - C, including English and Mathematics. This was also the case in many other subjects including science and modern foreign languages – both core academic subjects.”
- “The school’s assessment information shows excellent progress rates for most current pupils across Key Stages 3 and 4 over time. Scrutiny of pupils work in a range of subjects also indicates strong and consistent progress rates.” “It also shows higher performance than in 2014 of the most able pupils, with almost all achieving the highest grades”

16 to 19 study programmes

- “Academic outcomes improved in 2015 at A level and were above the national average.” “Pupils commented very positively about the variety of activities and how teachers plan lessons to build their knowledge and understanding.”
- “The new and well-designed curriculum pathways are ensuring better success at AS level with the highest results recorded for the school in 2015. This is because pupils are following courses better suited to their needs and starting points.”
- “Pupils make outstanding progress on vocational courses with outcomes well above national averages”
- “Sixth form leaders are determined in their pursuit of excellence. Pupils have a strong sense of community and fellow ship. They develop excellent knowledge and awareness of British values and what it means to be a responsible citizen in modern Britain.”
- “The school leaders’ work ensures sixth form pupils’ safety is excellent. Pupils are given in-depth and regular guidance about how to keep themselves safe online and from extremism. Pupils new to the sixth form are inducted thoroughly and also gain a detailed understanding of how to stay safe and quickly become integrated in to all aspects of school life.” “The high level of care is much appreciated by pupils who recognise the commitment of staff to ensure their safety and success.”
- The advanced level “extended project, which builds independence, research and critical thinking skills, achieved well in 2015 with 18 students of the 20 (90%) securing the highest grades (of A/A*)”, 100% gained A*-B.
- “Pupils in the sixth form benefit from strong academic and personal support and guidance.” “Pupils requiring additional support participate in a highly effective mentoring programme.”
- “Excellent careers advice, the annual higher education fair and guidance and opportunities for work experience at the end of Year 12 help pupils to make choices for when they leave the sixth form.” “Ensuring that almost all pupils proceed into education, employment or training when they leave.”

We apologise for making this a very lengthy press release. It is such a glowing report that many positive comments of a more technical nature have not been included. Parents, staff and governors have worked exceptionally hard for the school for some considerable time. It is fitting that their endeavours are celebrated in this way. It gives both of us great pleasure to wish them many congratulations!

Mayor's fair housing plan

Sitting alongside Cllr Blake, Mayor John Biggs and cabinet member for housing Cllr Sirajul Islam, will be Yvonne Arrowsmith, chief executive of East Thames Housing Association, Westminster University lecturer Duncan Bowie, barrister Sarah Sackman, representatives from business group London First, developers Barratt London and the Bromley by Bow Centre.

Cllr Blake said: "Affordable housing should always mean affordable.

"The commission brings together experts from across the housing sector and will enable us to have up-to-date information when making important decisions about future development and how we establish rents local people can afford."

Mayor Biggs said: "We face considerable challenges in delivering really affordable homes for local people.

"These include the very high local cost of housing, a chronic shortage of stock and a growing population.

"We welcome the significant regeneration taking place in the borough and the role this plays in transforming Tower Hamlets.

"However, we must not lose sight of the fact that, for increasing numbers of people who grew up in the borough, the possibility of renting or buying a local home has been very difficult."

These shepherds were part of a flock featuring in a nativity play staged nursery and reception class pupils at John Scurr Primary School in Stepney. Look out for a schools' nativity round-up in next week's East End Life.

'Affordable' rent deal

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

A SOCIAL housing landlord, which wrote to tenants telling them to buy their home or find somewhere else to live, has now agreed to let some stay on and pay affordable rents following an intervention by Mayor John Biggs.

Housing provider East Thames had told local tenants that they no longer intended to offer 'intermediate rent' and 'rent to buy' products.

Mayor Biggs was very concerned about the matter, met with East Thames chief executive Yvonne Arrowsmith.

Now, in agreement with the council, the landlord has made special arrangements for vulnerable tenants, or those who face serious financial hardship and are currently in intermediate rented homes.

It will allow them to convert to a tenure called affordable rent, which sets payments at about 65 per cent lower than the local market average.

Mayor Biggs commented: "As a result of our negotiations, I am confident that East Thames has now made a significant change to its original demand.

"However, it remains the case that this was an unwelcome decision for many residents who will now find it difficult to find affordable housing within Tower Hamlets."

The renewed offer does not apply to East Thames residents in 'rent to buy' homes who, after five years, have to switch from rent to shared ownership.

Almost a third of the households have expressed an interest in buying a share of their home. East Thames will waive valuation and reservation fees as a gesture of good will.

Public can shape plan

THE public are being asked to contribute to a plan that will form a blueprint for new development.

The council is asking for ideas about the scale of housing and business developments over the next ten to 15 years, which includes the number of schools planned, new transport infrastructure and the quantity of green spaces in the borough as part of the Local Plan.

People who live, work or study in Tower Hamlets can shape the Local Plan in the consultation, which opens on Monday, December 14 for eight weeks.

There a number of ways you can get involved. Pop along to one of the following events:

■ Thursday, January 14, 2016, from 11.30am-2.30pm, Idea Store Chrisp Street, 15

Market Square, E14.

■ Saturday, January 16, 10am-1pm, V&A Museum of Childhood, Cambridge Heath Road, E2.

■ Thursday, January 21, from 5.30-8.30pm, Alpha Grove Community Centre, Alpha Grove, E14.

Get involved in decision making

I AM keen as your mayor to involve you, local residents, in all corners of the borough, in our decisions.

Giving you a chance to shape the future of our borough is a key feature of the strong community – managing unprecedented change – I want us to be. Here are a few ways this can be helped to happen.

First, we've just started consulting on the Local Plan. This sets out our planning policies, which sounds a bit technical, and it is! But, at its heart, it simply describes how we want our borough to look.

You can register your interest in the process at www.towerhamlets.gov.uk/localplan and the formal consultation will get under way in the New Year.

At the last cabinet meeting, I approved proposals for a Neighbourhood Planning Forum in Limehouse. Two more were agreed in principle, in Spitalfields and the Isle of Dogs, and should follow shortly, if we can overcome local issues.

These groups will enable residents to help design how their neighbourhood looks and I welcome the commitment and interest people have shown.

And I am drawing up plans for a series of roadshows – where I, as your mayor, can hear what you are concerned about and want to see happen. The first will be in the New Year.

We all want a borough we feel part of – and that means constantly reviewing what we do, and listening too.

Last week we re-opened Bethnal Green library – a stepping stone towards a refresh of our community buildings and services. At a time of serious cuts, we need to manage our budgets but make sure we provide excellent services, like our libraries.

Finally, the council is urging residents to consider what support they can offer refugees.

All political parties in Tower Hamlets have lobbied the government for support to settle refugees while not affecting provision for existing residents.

We've set up a New Residents and Refugee Forum. If you want to donate to groups like Praxis, which supports around 1,200 people, call 7729 7985.

Best wishes for Christmas and the New Year.

Oaklands students impress MP

YEAR 11 students at Oaklands School were encouraged to aim high and follow their dreams during a visit by Rushanara Ali, MP for Bethnal Green and Bow.

Oaklands head teacher Patrice Canavan OBE welcomed Ms Ali to the school on Thursday, November 26.

She told students about her journey to becoming an MP, and spoke about some of the obstacles she encountered along the way.

Ms Ali also shared details of her daily parliamentary routine and answered questions from students and teachers about education and the UK's policy on refugees from Syria.

After delivering the assembly, Ms Ali toured the Bethnal Green school with Syed Afsar, director of school and community development. She said she was impressed with the students' high level of concentration in lessons and their all-round behaviour.

Ms Ali also expressed her delight at this year's GCSE results, in which 82 per cent of students achieved A* to C grades in five or more subjects including English and maths.

Ms Canavan described the MP as inspiring and a role model for Oaklands students.

Inderpal Birdi in the Arms Chemist, Poplar, which he ran for more than three decades

Pharmacist retires after 33-year stint

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

PEOPLE who visit a Poplar chemist will no longer see a familiar face, who has advised customers on remedies for their ailments for more than 30 years.

Pharmacist Inderpal Birdi of Arms Chemist, Poplar High Street, retired at the end of November after 33 years serving the community, which has been the centre of his life.

Working up to 60 hours a week, Mr Birdi is passionate about pharmacy and improving people's health and wellbeing.

He has tutored more than 40 graduate students to become registered pharmacists – his first is now pharmacist at Al-lens on the Isle of Dogs.

Mr Birdi is an avid supporter of St Joseph's Hospice and regularly participates in its fundraising activities.

Since qualifying in 1981, he said he has seen the profession become more service-led.

And as he leaves the business behind, Mr Birdi says service users need to support the NHS by being proactive and taking ownership of their health.

"I will miss the daily interaction with my patients and customers but, as I live in the area, no doubt will meet many of them and will be happy to be of any assistance and advice," he told East End Life.

Road improvement works completed

SEVERAL major road improvements have been completed by the council and its contractors.

Works were recently completed at Wentworth Street Market by the public realm engineering service.

The scheme has created a smoother carriageway with improved facilities for pedestrians and a more orderly layout.

Gates have also been installed to enable the market to be closed to traffic.

£632,000 was allocated through Transport for London's (TfL) Local Implementation Plan funding over the past two years.

TfL money was also used for improvements between the A13 and A11 in Aldgate and Whitechapel.

Old Bethnal Green Road has seen improvements to drainage and pedestrian crossings.

The road and pavements have been levelled.

Resurfacing work on Roman Road has also been undertaken.

Look out for signs of seasonal loneliness

WITH the Christmas and New Year celebrations approaching, a local health trust is encouraging residents to look after their mental health.

East London NHS Foundation Trust says holidays can bring stress and loneliness for many people.

While most are enjoying the festivities of the season, it can be a difficult time for others.

Medical director Dr Kevin Cleary said: "Loneliness and isolation can affect mental wellbeing so it is important to be aware of the signs.

"There are a number of local and national helplines, health professionals and other support services, which can help."

The trust advises those who feel that their mental health is deteriorating to call 3594 3179.

For urgent medical help or advice call 111, or in an emergency 999.

For confidential support and advice, call Lifeline on 0808 808 8000, www.lifelinehelpline.info or Samaritans on 08457 909090.

Have your say on school admissions

THE council is asking for views on school admission arrangements for 2017/18.

The aim is to ensure the process is fair and that as many parents as possible secure a place for their child at one of their preferred schools.

The council is holding a consultation event at Idea Store Whitechapel on Thursday, December 17 from 4-6pm so you can have your say in person.

The proposed arrangements for school admissions for 2017/18 school year can be found at www.towerhamlets.gov.uk/lgn1/council_and_democracy/consultations/school_admissions_consultation.aspx

Flowers bloom in warm spell

News from Tower Hamlets Cemetery Park

NOVEMBER was so mild that we had some daffodils of a very early variety in flower by the end of the month.

Our hollies have a good crop of berries this year and, if you look closely, you'll see that many trees also have a small second flowering now. The main flowering is in May.

If you'd like to see the daffodils and the hollies, and learn more about our history, as well as our wildlife, join us on our free Winter Wander on Sunday, December 20 at 2pm.

We'll be following the route of our new plants and people trail, which goes through a wide variety of meadow and woodland settings and, even at this time of year, there's still plenty to see.

Afterwards we'll warm up with mulled wine or a non-alcoholic drink, and mince pies.

Robins are regulars, but we've also seen woodpeckers frequently lately. The brilliantly coloured green woodpecker doesn't only get its food from the trees, but also by poking into ants' nests to eat the occupants, so we often see it on the ground.

The smaller great spotted woodpecker stays in the trees, but announces its presence by its 'pic' call.

If you live anywhere near the Cemetery Park, Mile End Park or Victoria Park, keep an eye open for woodpeckers.

Our special winter bird is the firecrest, Britain's tiniest bird, with a bright red stripe over its eye.

Small numbers winter in southern England and we usually get a couple, who arrive here in September and leave in March.

Its close relative, the goldcrest, is more common and usually to be found in numbers here.

A festive robin

In the New Year we've got lots of special events, all but one of which is free.

The one for which there is a charge is our Forest School Holiday Club, for children of all ages. This runs over four days of the school half-term in mid-February.

In that same week we have a free family event, planting young trees and wildflowers, from 10.30am-12.30pm, on Wednesday, February 17.

We also have two one-day courses, providing new woodland skills. The first is Know your Native Trees and Shrubs in Winter, on Thursday, January 21. The other, on Thursday, February 25, is Getting to Know Woodland Wildflowers and How to Grow Them.

On Saturday, February 27, from 11am-4pm, we have Hidden Histories, an unmissable event for all the family. This day launches the Friends' project, funded by the Heritage Lottery Fund, to research the 204 names on our war memorial and learn something of their lives.

The programme is still being finalised, but there will be talks, stalls from local history societies and lots for children, including a historical "scavenger hunt" art activity and storytelling.

It'll be a great opportunity for everyone who has information about any of the soldiers or their families to share it, and for us to help those who want to discover more about their own family history.

Neighbours make plans

THE council's cabinet discussed creating three neighbourhood planning forums and areas at its meeting on December 1.

The scheme would put parts of planning directly in the hands of local communities.

Limehouse, Spitalfields and the Isle of Dogs all submitted applications for neighbourhood planning forums.

The Limehouse forum was given the green light and agreed by the mayor. The Isle of Dogs forum was approved in principle and the Spitalfields was supported by the mayor.

Decision on the applications was deferred to allow clarification on consultation matters.

Cllr Rachel Blake, cabinet member for strategic development, said: "It's brilliant to see residents taking the planning process into their hands – too often people feel unable to influence development."

VOLUNTEER police cadets have been called a "credit to the community", after they helped recover drugs and knives during a weapons sweep. Tower Hamlets police officers conducted the sweep on Sunday, November 29. The team found weapons including a baseball bat, a lock-knife and a penknife concealed on stairwells of flats in the Devons Road area and in hedgerows in Mile End Park. They also found iron bars hidden behind a bench and a small quantity of cannabis. The weapons have been taken for forensic analysis.

Grocer fined over mice infestation

Droppings were found in boxes of food and on shelves

BY STEFAN SWIFT

A GROCER has been fined more than £1,500 after council officers discovered an infestation of mice.

Ahmed's Fruit & Veg on Stepney Way was closed temporarily following a routine inspection carried out in November 2014.

Having established that the establishment was not registered with the food safety system, the council's environmental health team visited the premises.

Officers found large quantities of mouse droppings throughout the shop – in boxes containing food products for sale to the public and on shelves containing food and cleaning products in the rear of the premises.

Packets of dried fish were found that had been gnawed at by mice and did not carry adequate labelling or traceability information.

Other food products appeared to have been chewed by rodents and evidence of nesting was found in empty egg containers.

Mouse droppings were discovered underneath pallets of food in the greengrocer's storage area.

Officers had no option but to close the shop. The direct contamination of food created an imminent risk to health.

Following a further visit, the premises was allowed to reopen. Subsequent visits have found the hygiene to be satisfactory.

Owner Abdul Malique, 47, of Jarman House, Jubilee Street, Stepney, pleaded guilty to all charges and was ordered to pay a fine of £1,500, prosecution costs of £1,500 and a victim surcharge of £120.

Cllr Ayas Miah, cabinet member for environment, said: "The council takes breaches of food safety very seriously, especially when they are extreme cases such as this."

"We remind all food retailers of the importance of hygiene, and will take enforcement action when retailers are in breach of the law."

If you suspect that a business is breaching food hygiene legislation, call 7364 5008 or email foodsafety@towerhamlets.gov.uk

Help shape health policy

THE local NHS is inviting residents interested in improving health services to join a panel.

The community commissioning panel will shape policy for NHS Tower Hamlets Clinical Commissioning Group.

The role will involve attending meetings, taking on projects and playing a part in decision making. Starting in spring 2016, meetings will typically take place every four to six weeks and last for up to two hours.

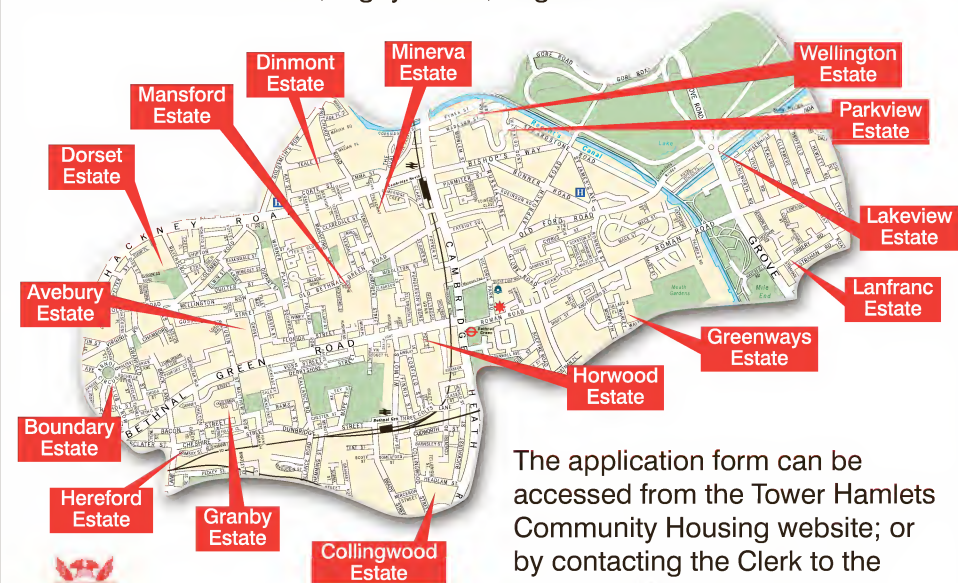

Visit www.towerhamletsccg.nhs.uk/getinvolved to download the role description and application form, email info@towerhamletsccg.nhs.uk or call 3688 2500.

Deadline for applications is midnight on January 10, 2016.

Are you or do you know someone over 60 from Bethnal Green who would benefit from an extra £150 per year, invitations to four social events each year, as well as a trip to the seaside each summer? If so, they should apply to be a pensioner of the Parmiter's Almshouse & Pension Charity.

Small Business Saturday

Something for everyone on our

BY MICHAEL DIOP

HOT food, community stalls, musicians, street performers and a children's choir joined traders at Whitechapel Market on December 5 to mark Small Business Saturday.

While the main event was in Whitechapel, the council is working with small businesses to encourage people to #shoptowerhamlets at all of the borough's markets, centres and high streets.

From the historic Columbia Road Flower Market to Brick Lane and Roman Road (which was nominated for Britain's best high street earlier this year), our market scene is one of London's best known and loved.

The Whitechapel Market event follows the announcement of ambitious plans for the area, including 3,500 new homes over ten years and 5,000 jobs, many of which will be provided by the council's new civic hub at the former Royal London Hospital.

The Whitechapel Vision regeneration scheme has ensured dedicated space for small and local businesses, along with plans to facilitate the growth of London's 'Tech City' in Shoreditch. And the council's Enterprising Whitechapel initiative will identify currently empty or underused buildings in Whitechapel and bring them back to productive use by providing workspace for small to medium-sized enterprises.

The event took place from 11.30am-4.30pm. Residents and businesses were encouraged to share the best of local enterprise and tell the council why they #shoptowerhamlets

Mayor John Biggs said: "It was great to see a good turnout for the Small Business event on Saturday and people were clearly enjoying the entertainment laid on too. Whitechapel has such a variety of well-established and new businesses, and this will only get better with the regeneration coming to the area."

Cllr Joshua Peck, cabinet member for work and economic growth, said: "Small Business Saturday seemed to be a welcome boost for our local shops, with the performers and musicians in Whitechapel adding to the festive atmosphere.

Stunning facelift for library

BY SAM GOUGH

ONE of the borough's most beautiful libraries has re-opened after extensive refurbishment.

The grade II listed Bethnal Green library, in Bethnal Green Gardens, off Cambridge Heath Road, has been closed for eight months while it was renovated.

Once part of the Bethnal House asylum, it opened as a library in 1922 and has ornate stained glass, wood panelling and an elaborate corniced ceiling.

The improvements included replacing the building's old heating system, removing asbestos material and light refurbishment and redecoration of the main library.

Alongside this, the library will have:

- a brand new Wi-Fi system;
- eight computers for internet access, scanning and printing facilities;
- a new bench for laptop users;
- additional comfortable seating spaces for people using their own devices;
- a new layout – including adult and child fiction sections.

The building was officially opened on Monday, December 7.

Mayor John Biggs said: "Bethnal Green Library is an amazing building.

Library user Chris Giff catches up on the day's news in the newly refurbished building

"For almost a century, it has given people the joy of literature and of expanding knowledge. However, it needed to be updated for the 21st century. So I'm really glad to see this opening up for residents to enjoy long into the future."

Cllr Asma Begum, cabinet member for culture, attended the opening.

She said: "This is a stunning building that has been at the heart of the community for so long now. It's great to see it opening its doors again – much to the benefit of our residents."

The opening hours for the library will stay the same as before the temporary closure – Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, from 10am to 6pm; Thursday, from 10am to 8pm and Saturday, from 9am to 5pm.

History

New Moon rising after the darkness

BY JOHN RENNIE

FORGET the glittering playhouses of St Martin's Lane and Shaftsbury Avenue... the most exciting London theatrical happenings in the 1960s were taking place in grimier, lesser known parts of London.

Out in Stratford, Joan Littlewood was encouraging the improvisation of some of the most exciting drama London had seen, while East End playwrights such as Steven Berkoff and Arnold Wesker were consigning Terence Rattigan et al firmly to theatrical history.

And down in a little alleyway, sandwiched between Leman Street and Whitechapel High Street, the Half Moon Theatre Company was born.

The Half Moon, formed in 1972 in a rented synagogue in Alie Street, was named after the nearby Half Moon Passage (a romantic-sounding moniker, but most likely taken from the name of a pub).

This was far from your regular playhouse, comprising the adult theatre company, the Young People's Theatre and the Photography Workshop, with rehearsal space and living accommodation.

Now, a new project is to explore the often turbulent history of the Half Moon, and they're looking for those of us who remember the theatre to record those memories... and you'll be joining a stellar cast.

The driving forces behind the Half Moon were a trio of actors Michael Irving and Maurice Colbourne (a successful TV actor who would later find fame as Tom Howard in the BBC drama Howard's Way) and theatre director Guy Sprung.

If the concept was very much a product of the Sixties' idea of an alternative society, then the first productions to emerge were just as far from the Shaftsbury Avenue mainstream.

Bertolt Brecht's In the Jungle of the Cities in 1972 was followed by Will Wat If Not What Will, a collaborative effort by Sprung, Steve Gooch and the company.

Rumpole of the Bailey creator John Mortimer, writing in The Observer, called it "one of the best things in my term as a critic".

Community mattered and, in 1973, the company took part in the E1 Festival, which attracted more local actors and writers and led to the Seventies becoming an optimistic period of growth and expansion.

An acclaimed production of Henry IV, Part 1 and 2 was reviewed by The Guardian's critic Michael Billington in glowing terms. Audiences were growing, but the tiny Alie Street venue seated only 80 people.

So in 1975, as money started to come in

Above: the Half Moon theatre was formed in 1972 in a rented synagogue in Alie Street

Right: Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in Sink the Belgrano!, a 1986 satirical play written by Steven Berkoff about the Falklands War from an Arts Council grant, the decision was taken to expand into new premises.

In 1979, a disused Methodist chapel close to Stepney Green was found. Close by the Tube station and on the main Mile End Road, the venue seated 200 and promised increased revenue to allow the company to thrive and grow.

Productions continued to impress, both in their design as well as in the performances. For the opening production in the new venue in 1979, a revival of Robert Tressell's The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists, the team took advantage of the dilapidated state of the building by working that into the performance.

Later that year, Edward Bond's The Worlds took advantage of the fixed seating around a central performance area. And that year too, Frances de la Tour began a successful collaboration with the Half Moon, appearing in the London premiere of Dario Fo's We Can't Pay? We Won't Pay!, Eleanor Marx's Landscape of Exile and Shakespeare's Hamlet. In the latter play, the former Miss Jones, of Rising Damp fame, played the prince himself.

Sometimes, alas, organisations can be the victims of their own success. The old chapel was now too small, and architect Florian Beigel (a name that seems ideally suited to the East End) came up with a plan to expand, with a new 'space' on land adjacent to the church.

Space was the apposite word – this would be a playhouse with no fixed seating, supremely flexible, allowing plays to be staged in any form director and company desired. £1m was raised, and the old chapel now became the theatre offices and a bar, while the new space would reflect "the most direct forms of theatre of the past, such as the Italian Commedia dell'Arte and the Elizabethan theatres with galleried courtyards, such as Shakespeare's Globe..."

But almost immediately the Half Moon was caught in a perfect storm of troubles. The new Thatcher government decreed that arts organisations should be self-funding rather than relying on grants, which flew in the face of the company's policy of bringing low-cost theatre to those on low incomes.

The company's remit of producing challenging, leftist drama such as Steven Berkoff's Sink The Belgrano! was hardly likely to earn them much sympathy from a Tory government.

Meanwhile, the public taste for agit prop theatre was going into decline as the Eighties wore on, and audiences were down, while commercial sponsors proved resistant to backing a programme of plays out of tune with the consumerist decade.

The Half Moon now started using what remained of its Greater London Arts Association (GLAA) grant to service the debts from the ambitious rebuild. The hammer blow came when the GLAA then slashed the grant in half, pointing out that it was intended to fund performances, not capital projects.

In 1990, the theatre went 'dark' and for years was a gradually crumbling hulk on the Mile End Road. It would re-open as a Wetherspoon's pub, its name (The Half Moon) a mournful nod to what might have been.

But... some good ideas just won't go away. The young people's theatre survived as an independent company, became a charity and, in partnership with the council, bought the old Limehouse Board of Works on White Horse Road, Stepney, as a new base.

The company is (with the help of a cocktail of grants) now flourishing.

But the original Half Moon is not forgotten. Get involved with the project and you can help rebuild those memories.

Get involved with the Half Moon project

Half Moon has received £46,000 from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF) for its Stages of Half Moon project. Led by 100 local young people, it will shed light on the rich heritage of the theatre, the role it played in the East End and its development from the 1970s to the present day.

It will provide public access to the theatre's records for the first time through research, archiving, digitisation and a touring exhibition. Half Moon's youth theatres will also have the chance to perform some of the iconic plays developed there. Young people, aged 11 to 25, will gain skills in research and interviewing, including oral history, and will record on film the memories of local residents and theatre professionals.

The theatre's two surviving co-founders and artistic directors, Guy Sprung and Michael Irving, and subsequent artistic directors Robert Walker and Chris Bond, plus Steven Berkoff, Simon Callow, Josie Lawrence and Frances de la Tour, will all be recording their memories. Anyone wanting to get involved can email history@halfmoon.org.uk.

সাক্ষরতার হার বাড়তে বিভিন্ন পদক্ষেপ গ্রহণ

বারায় সাক্ষরতার হার বাড়তে বিভিন্ন ধরনের পদক্ষেপ গ্রহণ করেছে টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটস্ কাউন্সিল ।

পড়ার ও লেখার দক্ষতাকে সন্তোষজনক মানে উন্নীত করার মাধ্যমে সাক্ষরতার মাত্রাকে বাড়ানো ব্যাপারে কাউন্সিল দৃঢ় প্রতিজ্ঞ । কারণ কোন একজন ব্যক্তির পড়া ও লেখার দক্ষতা বাড়ানোর ফলে যে শুধু ঐ ব্যক্তি লাভবান হন, তা নয়, এর ফলে অর্থনৈতিক উন্নতিও ঘটে ।

কাউন্সিলর ডেনিস জোনস্ এর নেতৃত্বে জুটিনি বা পুজানুপুজভাবে পর্যালোচনার পর গত ১ ডিসেম্বর অনুষ্ঠিত কেবিনেট মিটিংয়ে কাউন্সিলের চলমান ও ভবিষ্যত কার্যক্রমের একটি রূপরেখা অনুমোদন করা হয় । এইসব পদক্ষেপের মধ্যে রয়েছেঃ কাউন্সিলের ওয়েবসাইটে যেসকল তথ্যাদি রয়েছে তার মান বাড়ানো । কী স্টেজ ও এর জন্য পরীক্ষামূলকভাবে একাডেমিক ইংলিশ প্রোগ্রাম গ্রহণ ও বাস্তবায়ন এবং এর সাফল্য বার্থ তা পর্যালোচনা করা এবং রিডিং রিকোর্ডারি প্রোগ্রাম পরিচালনা অব্যাহত রাখতে গ্র্যান্ট এর সুযোগ খতিয়ে দেখা ও কর্পোরেট স্পন্সর খুঁজে বের করা ।

মেয়র, জন বিগস বলেন, এই পদক্ষেপগুলো খুবই প্রয়োজনীয় ছিলো । কিভাবে আমরা টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটসে সাক্ষরতার হার বাড়াবো, তারই একটি ব্রুপ্রিন্ট হচ্ছে এই পদক্ষেপসমূহ । বারার জনসাধারণের ওপর এই পদক্ষেপগুলো জীবন পরিবর্তনকারী প্রভাব ফেলবে ।

কমিউনিটি এ্যালকোহল পার্টনারশীপ প্রশংসিত

অগ্রাণু বয়স্কদের মধ্যে মদ্য পানের প্রবণতা হ্রাস এবং এই আসক্তির ফলশ্রুতিতে সংঘটিত নানা সমাজ বিরোধী কার্যকলাপ দমনে কাউন্সিলের একটি উদ্ভাবনী ক্লীম ব্যাপকভাবে প্রশংসিত হয়েছে ।

সারা দেশে এই ধরনের সকল উদ্যোগের ব্যাপক ভিত্তিক পর্যালোচনা ও মূল্যায়ন শেষে টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটস্ কাউন্সিলের কমিউনিটি এ্যালকোহল পার্টনারশীপ (সিএপি) সেরা বলে বিবেচিত হয় । বেথনালগ্রীণ এবং সেন্ট পিটার্স ওয়ার্ডে গত এপ্রিল মাসে প্রজেক্টটি আনুষ্ঠানিকভাবে চালু করা হয় । বছর ব্যাপি পরিচালিত এই প্রজেক্টের ফলে এন্টি–সোশ্যাল বিহেভিয়ার বা এএসবি'র হার ৪৬ পার সেন্ট হ্রাস পায় এবং মদ বা মদ জাতীয় পানীয় জব্দের হার ৮৭ শতাংশ বৃদ্ধি পায় ।

এছাড়া এই একই সময়কালে বেথনাল গ্রীণ ও সেন্ট পিটার্স ওয়ার্ডে কম বয়সীদের দ্বারা সংঘটিত উচ্ছৃঙ্খল আচরণের হার ৮০ শতাংশ হ্রাস পেয়েছে ।

এই প্রজেক্টের আওতায় স্থানীয় খুচরা বিক্রেতাদেরকে তাদের দায় দায়িত্ব সম্পর্কে অবহিত করা, বিশেষ করে ১৮ বছরের কম বয়সীদের কাছে এ্যালকোহল বা মদ জাতীয় পানীয় বিক্রি না করতে উদ্বুদ্ধ করা হয় ।

The Winter Reading Challenge launches – page 6

কাউন্সিলের উদ্যোগে বারার সকল আইডিয়া স্টোর ও লাইব্রেরীতে শুরু হয়েছে শিশুদের জন্য শীতকালীন বই পড়া প্রতিযোগিতা ।

৪ বছর থেকে ১১ বছর বয়সীরা এই প্রতিযোগিতায় অংশ নিয়ে ক্রিসমাসের আগ পর্যন্ত ৪টি বা তার বেশি সংখ্যক বই পড়তে হবে । যারা ই উইন্টার রিডিং চ্যালেঞ্জ এ অংশ নিয়ে ন্যূনপক্ষে ৪টি বই পড়বে, তাদের প্রত্যেককে এচিভমেন্ট সার্টিফিকেট দেয়া হবে ।

এই কর্মসূচির অংশ হিসেবে আগামী ২১

ডিসেম্বর বেলা ২টা থেকে ৪টা পর্যন্ত হোয়াইটচ্যাপল আইডিয়া স্টোরে সান্টার সাথে দেখা করার সুযোগ পাবে শিশুরা ।

আইডিয়া স্টোরগুলোর স্টাফরা এবারের প্রতি–যোগিতার জন্য যে বইগুলোকে বাছাই করেছেন, তার মধ্যে রয়েছেঃ ড. সাস এর লেখা হাও দ্যা গ্রিন স্টল ক্রিসমাস, মাইকেল মরপুরগো'র লেখা ক্রিসমাস স্টোরিজ, স্টেলা ব্যাগট এর বেবিজ ভেরি ফাস্ট টাচি–ফিলি ক্রিসমাস বুক এবং রড ক্যাম্পবেল এর ডিয়ার সান্তা ।

উল্লেখ্য, এবারের সামার রিডিং চ্যালেঞ্জে অংশ নিয়েছিলো টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটসের ৪ হাজার শিশু ।

সংস্কৃতি বিষয়ক কেবিনেট মেম্বার, কাউন্সিলর আসমা বেগম বলেন, এই শীতকালীন বই পড়া প্রতিযোগিতা বারা হিসেবে আমাদের জন্য খুবই জরুরী । স্কুল সময়ের বাইরে বই পড়ার ফলে বাচ্চাদের জ্ঞানের পরিধি যে বৃদ্ধি পায় এবং এটি তাদের স্কুলওয়ার্কে সাহায্য করে ও জীবনভর বই পড়ার অভ্যাস গড়ে ওঠে তার অনেক প্রমাণ রয়েছে ।

The Crossrail Place roof garden, designed by Norman Foster, offers an oasis of calm

Wonderland Wharf

Walk of the Month: Canary Wharf

On this month's walk, Graham Barker encounters sculptures, skaters and stocking fillers amid the parks and malls of Canary Wharf. Photos by Kois Miah.

WITH the festive season upon us, Canary Wharf is a magical place to visit, especially after dusk, as you follow this route you'll see fairy-lit street trees, skaters whizzing around the ice-rink and bars busy with office parties.

Gift seekers will find high-end fashions and budget-friendly stocking fillers. And to escape the commercial hubbub there's a peaceful moment amidst ferns and bamboos in the Crossrail rooftop garden.

The walk starts at Heron Quays DLR station. The railway track runs on high, within a teal-coloured hulk propped by steels. As you exit, look for Charles Hadcock's Helisphere – a spliced cast iron globe – the first of several sculptures hereabouts. Canary Wharf Group has one of the UK's largest public art collections, with more than 60 artworks dotted around.

Cross over to Middle Dock (1), one of three that once formed the West India Docks. The DLR viaduct – painted as 'A Beautiful Sunset Mistaken for a Dawn' in exuberant pinks and blues by Sinta Tantra – runs over the water towards the Canary Wharf train shed, picked out with red girders.

Middle Dock is only about half its original size; since 1999 the eastern section has accommodated the underground station, topped by Jubilee Park.

As you enter the park, another Hadcock sculpture – Torsion II – gently twists like a stairway to the stars.

“The roof is inset with air-filled plastic cushions, like a giant arc of bubblewrap.”

Jubilee Park (2) is a delightful green pocket amidst the skyscrapers, landscaped by Jacques Wirtz.

The pathway winds its way beside stepped fountains, cloaked in limestone, and currently it's illuminated by a nine-lamp menorah to mark the Jewish festival of Chanukah.

During the festive period, mulled wine and hot cider are on offer from pop-up shacks in Montgomery Square – just beyond the park – but today your route goes into the angular glass pavilion about half way through.

An escalator takes you down to Jubilee Place shopping mall (3). It's feeling festive at the moment: Santa's grotto sits within a house made of sweets, and trees are decorated in gold and cream baubles.

Explore the outlets – upmarket women's wear, shoes and toiletries to the right, and restaurants straight ahead offering pizzas, burgers and peri peri chicken.

As you progress, look out for Emma Biggs' beautiful pavement mosaics depicting old-time dock cargoes, framed with snippets such as “Three million pounds

Bob Allen's 'It Takes Two' sculpture, one of many works of public art on show at Canary Wharf

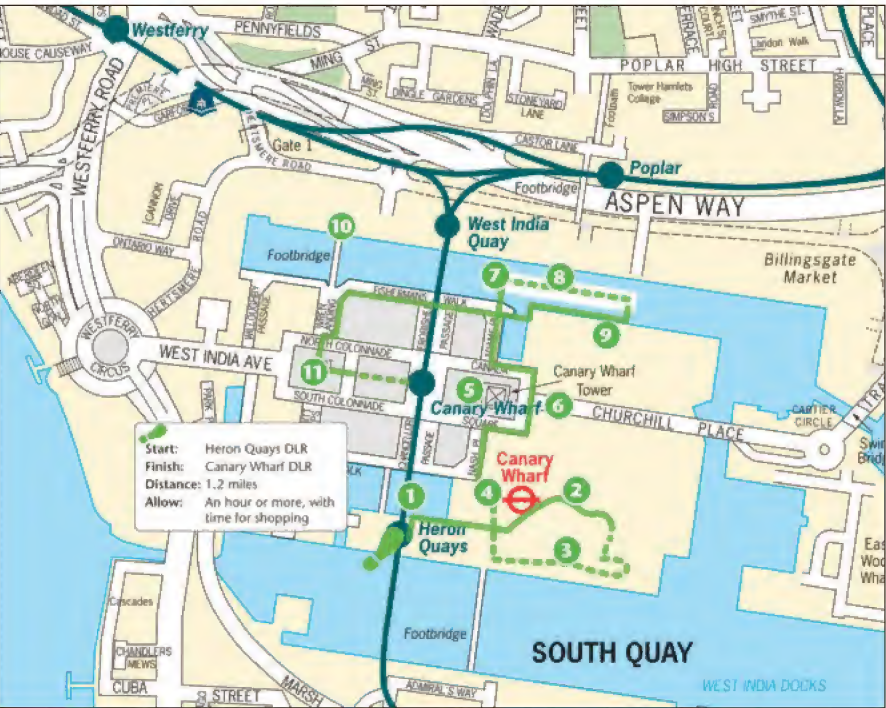

Santa's grotto is open for business at Jubilee Place shopping mall

The charming water feature will transport you from the hubub of city life of feathers were sold annually before the First World War" and "Imported python skins could be more than 20 feet long".

Light wells peer into the level below. Take the escalator down and stroll by fashion boutiques, sports shops and a shoe-shine stand, heading for the Jubilee line station (4). You emerge into the vast cavernous ticket hall, with light pouring in through the arched glass canopy.

Take the escalators up. Back outside, an illuminated Reuters ticker-tape talks of oil prices and company profits as it races around the corner.

Small cabins – one cleverly shaped like a concertina file – sell street food and protein shakes, beside six Swiss railway clocks by Konstantin Grcic.

One Canada Square (5) shimmers ahead of you, towering up 46 storeys and topped by a pyramid. Architect Cesar Pelli designed it as the centrepiece for developers Olympia & York and it instantly became a London landmark. Take a look inside the lobby – clad in pink and black marble – and help yourself to a free art map.

From South Colonnade, Canada Square (6) opens out, framed with fairy-lit trees, benches and the sensuous 'It Takes Two' sculpture. In summer you'll find open-air concerts here – cabaret and comedy in the Spiegeltent, for example – and in winter it's transformed with an ice rink. Watch the skaters – some confident, others wobbly – as they work their way round. Restaurants alongside sell Mexican quesadillas, Japanese sushi and British classics.

Cross North Colonnade to HSBC's offices, guarded by bronze lions – nicknamed Stephen and Stitt after former bank managers in Shanghai. A history wall of photos dominates the lobby.

Beyond Credit Suisse and Bank of America, a wide white tube-walk – reminiscent of a science fiction film – leads you to Crossrail Place (7). When it opens in 2018, Crossrail will transform transport connections across London. It's a colossal achievement in civil engineering terms; take time to look at the photo exhibition to appreciate the sheer scale of it.

This six-storey structure – designed by Norman Foster & Partners to resemble a liner berthed in North Dock – is more than a train station; it incorporates shops, restaurants and a remarkable rooftop garden (8).

Take the escalators up one level. The spruce lattice roof is inset with air-filled plastic cushions, rather like a giant arc of bubblewrap, punctured here and there. Before heading into the gardens, skirt around the Big Easy steak and lobster shack, for glimpses towards the City and then over the Poplar skyline; in time, a link will be created to Poplar DLR station.

The location has inspired the garden planting, as the station sits close to the prime meridian, the point at which east meets west; initially the plants you encounter are western tree ferns, sweet gum and bananas, before transitioning to eastern bamboos, maples and magnolias.

Weave your way through, or pause to enjoy the peace. At the far end – beside a pop-up performance space – two escalators take you down to Level -1. Out on the quayside, there's a parade of gift shops, international restaurants, cycle outlets and a luxury cinema. Somewhat unexpectedly, two Midland Bank war memorials (9) sit opposite, incorporating St George and the Recording Angel by Albert Toft.

The pathway opens out into Adams Place, landscaped with shallow water pools and tiled planters. Keep beside the dock, past the rippled Douglas Fir sculpture by Keith Rand, and bars buzzing with office Christmas parties.

From the steps at Wren's Landing there's a view across the lime-green bridge floating on cylindrical pontoons as it arcs towards the Georgian former dock warehouses (10), now home to restaurants and the free-to-visit Museum of London Docklands.

Lynn Chadwick's sculpture 'Couple on Seat' welcomes you into Cabot Square (11). You're surrounded by water – cascades and a giant central pool, dancing with fountains – and it's a final chance to marvel at the skyscrapers before heading indoors to Cabot Place.

Inside, Canary Wharf DLR station marks the end of the walk. But with so much to tempt, you might like to stay longer – a chance to shop for presents, try out some skating acrobatics, or relax in a nearby restaurant or bar.

Deep-clean is under way

THE council has launched Your Space Your Place by embarking on a new programme to deep clean the borough's streets.

The Clean Team began work on the Boundary Estate in Bethnal Green last week.

Parking was suspended in Arnold Circus and nearby streets over three days, so roads and pavements could be cleaned.

Waste contractor Veolia used mechanical road sweepers and jet pressure washers, while teams from its outreach project and the council's clean and green volunteers collected waste.

Graffiti was scrubbed from buildings not owned by the council and drains were cleared of blockages.

The deep-clean will be extended to other areas in the coming weeks and months.

Your Place Your Space attempts to encourage people to treat the streets as they would rooms in their own home. This latest initiative follows a range of measures introduced to help make the borough cleaner.

The council recently launched a Fly-Tip Squad and the mayor scrapped the £15 charge for bulky waste collections.

Cllr Ayas Miah, cabinet member for environment, said: "We hope by seriously cleaning areas across the borough, everyone can be proud of the area they live, visit or work in."

A magical place to ice skate

During the Second World War, the Tower of London's dry moat was used for growing fruit and vegetables. Throughout winter, part of it is transformed into an ice rink with a historic view.

Carnival lights up the Lincoln

BY JACQUELINE HARTHILL

RESIDENTS of the Lincoln Estate left a trail of light, colour and sound through the streets when they took part in a night carnival.

Lighting up the Lincoln was organised by Fern Street Settlement, All Hallows Bow Church and Eden Bow Youth Project on Saturday, November 28.

More than 120 people from the Bow estate worked to create animal lanterns out of natural materials.

The carnival's theme was Noah's Ark and lantern-makers included children, young people and families.

Organisers Sara Brayford, from Fern Street Settlement, and Alex Hall, from Eden Bow

Youth Project, said: "The creativity people showed in building their lanterns this year was just amazing.

"We were blown away by the joyful spirit of the parade and the way it brought people together."

The event was supported by the Metropolitan Police, with officers helping to steward the parade and joining in the after-party at All Hallows Bow Church.

Back in the warm, paraders enjoyed getting to know each other over festive hot drinks, crafts and games.

For more information on activities for families, children and young people at the Fern Street Settlement and Eden Bow, visit www.fernstreet.org.uk or email bow@eden-network.org.uk

Farewell club night

SINK the Pink will be saying ta-ta to the Bethnal Green Working Men's Club as the hedonistic club night has its Last Hurrah.

Sink the Pink is the brainchild of two friends, Amy Zing and Glyn Famous, aka Donatella and Lagerfeld. The duo have been performing at the club for five years but will be holding court for the last time on Saturday, December 19.

The pair set out to create "the most perfect house party imaginable". It has now become an internationally renowned club night, famous for two things: glitter – everything and everyone is coated in it – and 'trannies', who arrive with their prepared routines and home-made costumes.

If you want to pop along to the Last Hurrah, arrive by 8pm to ensure that you can join the crew as they raise a glass and say goodbye to the end of an era.

Bethnal Green Working Men's Club is at 42-44 Pollard Row, E2.

For more details, call 7739 7170 or email info@sinkthepink.co.uk

Sink the Pink, the Last Hurrah, is on Saturday, December 19 from 8pm. Go to www.sinkthepink.co.uk

A LOCAL young filmmaker is looking for funding to shine a light on our image-based society. Timothy Moorhouse, 24, has employed professional actors from Tower Hamlets and across London to produce an adaptation of the Oscar Wilde short story, The Birthday of the Infanta. His film will see Katy, a gardener, struggle with being rejected for having no skills, not being "smart enough" and being bullied for not being "beautiful". Tim wanted to tell her story and, through doing so, spark conversations on topics that other people can relate to. "The story is all about the negative aspect of a narcissistic culture and over-excess," he said. The project will only be funded if it raises £3,000 by Thursday, December 24; it has currently raised £2,004 from 55 backers.

You can donate anything between £2 and £1,000 and every donation of £2 or more will be rewarded with an exclusive gift related to the film. If all the money isn't raised by the 24th, monies will be refunded. To donate, users need to register as a Kickstarter member with all payments made by credit or debit card. Donations can be made at www.tbti.uk

GRAB your winter woollies and a steadying hand and head off to the Tower of London for an evening of ice skating.

Located in the dry moat, the ice rink offers a stunning historical setting along with views of the borough's ancient fortress.

session of the day. To warm up and refresh yourself after your session, you can grab a bite to eat at the Ice Bar and Café, which serves a selection of winter drinks and festive snacks.

Eating out, eating in French classics and fantastic fish dishes

BY GORDON BLUE

UNDER P in my little black book is Palmers: a neighbourhood stalwart ten minutes away from home where you're guaranteed an excellent supper.

Situated on the ground floor of a reasonably new development, the interior feels modern yet refreshingly homely.

We were genially seated by one of the sons of the father/sons ownership and settled on a crisp glass of Viognier to get us in the mood.

The menu is full of French classics, with a special emphasis on fish.

We settled down for some stunning starters. My scallops and chorizo were sublime, served on a creamy bed of cauliflower purée.

The scallops were very large, perfectly cooked and matched well with my wine.

The Silver Fox tucked into a generous bouillabaisse-style soup, a sort of fish stew, replete with langoustine-sized prawns and hearty with fish fillets.

Palmers is a treat for lovers of fish

The promised rouille and crouton didn't materialise, but the depth of flavour and size left us without complaint.

Predictably, I plumped for the whole sea bass with salsa verde sauce as a main course.

There is nothing more luxurious in my eyes than a whole fish to oneself. And the salsa verde was sharp and refreshing, cutting through the creaminess of the fish flesh.

The Fox went for Toulouse sausages and mash, a dish where you can't go far wrong but the devil is in the detail.

The mash was creamy with butter and perfectly seasoned; the gravy rich, dark and devilish to the last greedy mouthful.

We passed on desserts, sated and happy as sandboys.

What a treat to have this quality of food on our doorstep

All the fish is sourced from Billingsgate and veg from new Spitalfields market.

Two ate two courses, with wine for less than £70 in total.

We wish you a veggie Christmas

ALMOST the first question that a vegetarian gets asked is: "What do you do for Christmas dinner?"

For me, the best bits of Christmas dinner are the roast potatoes, sprouts, parsnips, good mushroom gravy and home made cranberry sauce. I want something light, with traditional Christmassy flavours that match the rest of the meal.

This year, I have decided to make a shallow open pie, in an 8ins x 10ins dish.

Season's eatings!

Mushroom & chestnut filo pie – serves 3

Ingredients

5 leaves of filo pastry
Lime juice
1 red onion
Knob of butter
6 mushrooms
Half a packet dried chestnuts

1 tsp mixed spice
Sprinkle of sage and thyme
1 tsp tamarind paste
1 tsp lemon juice
Crushed star anise
Handful roasted cashew nuts

Method

1. Line the dish with greaseproof paper and lay in the filo leaves. Frill out like petals, paint the base with lime juice and pop in a hot oven to set the pastry. Set aside to cool.
2. Finely dice one half the onion, cut the other half into thin rings.
3. Melt the butter in a frying pan and cook the diced onions.
4. Dice the mushrooms and add to the pan with the sage and thyme, and cook until softened.
5. Add the chestnuts, chopped, a little more butter and the mixed spice. Cook for a few moments then add water to reach halfway up the ingredients and the tamarind. Stir and let cook very gently until the ingredients are almost indistinguishable.

6. Spoon into the filo and spread evenly. Add the lemon juice to the pan, swirl to gather the tasty bits, then drizzle over the mixture.
7. Fry the onion rings in a little butter with star anise. Add a handful of crushed cashews and toast until bronze.
8. Place onion rings on the mixture in the pie and sprinkle over the nuts. Pop in a medium oven for 15 mins.

Five ways you can help homeless people in Tower Hamlets this Christmas

Rough sleeping and homelessness is an issue up and down the country. The amount of people sleeping rough in Tower Hamlets is low due to the hard work of outreach and other services both in and out the council. Despite this, more work needs to be done.

Here are a few tips on how you can help this Christmas.

1 Keep the Streetlink website loaded on your phone

Streetlink is a website that enables the public to alert councils about people sleeping rough. This is the first step that someone can take to ensure that rough sleepers are connected to local services and get the support that is available.

You can also download the Streetlink app from the iTunes app store.

2 If not, let Tower Hamlets Council know

Make sure you are aware of our homelessness and housing options services. Find out more on our website.

If someone is homeless or sleeping rough, they can contact us to find out what housing options are available to them. Once in touch with us, they can access useful help and advice.

3 Invest money into charities that deal with homelessness

It might seem controversial but pressing a pound into the hand of a homeless person for them to buy a hot drink won't help them. Rough sleepers are among the most excluded people in society. Many have been in care as children or in prison as adults. They often suffer with mental and physical health issues. Money won't fix these problems.

It's better to donate to charities like Providence Row, Thames Reach, and bigger national charities like Shelter or Crisis. They all campaign with the government to explore ways of alleviating these issues. They also support homeless people – training them for work, providing resource centres, housing and feeding them. Your money will go further with these charities.

4 Volunteer your time and help people suffering homelessness

How you can help depends very much on your experience. Just contact one of the homeless charities and offer your time. You may have specific skills that can be used but often it is about just being there.

Whatever you want to do, your contribution can have a real impact on the people who may be facing sleeping on the streets.

Contact Thames Reach or Providence Row to find out how you can help locally.

5 Don't demonise these people! This could happen to anyone

The people sleeping rough are no different to anyone else. They've just had a hard time in their lives and are extremely vulnerable. Demonising them doesn't help.

Homeless Link have a page full of research which shows what is happening on the ground, and identifies what is working and what isn't when it comes to tackling homelessness.

HAVE YOUR SAY ON SCHOOL ADMISSIONS

Tower Hamlets Council is asking for your views on its school admission arrangements for 2017/18. The aim is to ensure that school admissions are fair and that as many parents as possible secure a place for their child at one of their preferred schools.

The council is holding a consultation event to seek the views of the public. Head down to Idea Store Whitechapel on Thursday, December 17 from 4pm to 6pm to have your say in person.

The proposed arrangements for school admissions for 2017/18 school year can be found at:

http://www.towerhamlets.gov.uk/ignl/council_and_democracy/consultations/school_admissions_consultation.aspx

Please tell the council what you think by completing the online questionnaire.

You can also request a paper copy from Jebin Syeda on 020 7364 2070 or Jebin.syeda@towerhamlets.gov.uk

The consultation ends on December 31, 2015.

TWO students on Queen Mary University of London's elite athlete programme – Kate Karwacinski and Abigail Attenborough – have early targets to aim for in 2016. Karate ace Kate has her sights set on international premier league tournaments in Paris and Holland. But her number one priority is the British University championships, where the double gold medallist is aiming for a hat-trick of successes. She also wants to prove herself for England at the senior European and world karate championships, which would cement her place in Team GB's Rio squad. Lacrosse player Abigail is looking to prove herself at international level, starting with making the Welsh team for the home internationals in March. Long term she wants to represent her country at the 2017 world championships.

MILLWALL clipped the wings of Pegasus Palmerians and went on an awayday points spree.

Two tries from Alessandro Penna and one apiece by Phil Whittaker, Eoin McCabe, Craig Shaw and Andy Matthews, plus a magnificent five conversions by Alban Aubertin, made this a performance to remember.

The win took them to sixth in the table, and spokesman Tom Bradfield said: "This was an excellent performance on a windy day.

"There were some outstanding performances from Andy Matthews and Alban Aubertin setting the platform for a big win, making it three in a row."

Basketball Cup dream is over

Leicester Riders...75
London Lions...65
(Riders 152-130 on aggregate)
LONDON Lions missed out on a place in the British Basketball League final after failing to overturn a first leg defeat.

Both teams struggled to get on the scoreboard until the third minute when TrayVonn Wright finally netted, but Lions responded and finished the quarter 15-16 ahead.

They stretched this to 18-28 only for Riders to reduce the arrears.

Then with just 40 seconds of the first half remaining and the gap still at ten, Riders stunned the Lions fans to bring it to 34-37 going into half time.

In the second-half scoring continued back and forth.

However, once the Riders got the lead they never relinquished it and the Lions' cup final dream was over for a second season.

Karate kids take on all-comers in double European adventure

Karate

POPLAR'S Veras Karate Academy athletes have been doing what they do best – chasing medals. But they have been fighting for gold 713 miles apart.

Two teams displayed their skills on the tatami (straw-like mat), one competing in Holland the other chasing glory in Hungary.

On November 28, the aptly named Demie Holland, 11, competed in Rotterdam and, although feeling sick, brought home a bronze medal as part of the Midlands England girls 10-11 years team at the Battle of the Teams.

She won her first fight 6-0 against Germany then drew 3-3 with France before losing 2-1 to Holland.

Twenty-four hours later, 713 miles away, Veras Academy squad, with Tower Hamlets young star Tayla O' Brien from Bethnal Green club Uechi Ryu, were in Budapest for the 21th Hungarian Tatami Karate Cup representing England, guided by Veras karate head coach Raphael Veras.

This was definitely the most challenging trip so far for the Veras kids.

They faced elite nationals from Turkey,

Megan Salisbury, Charlotte Thomas and Demie Holland who went to Rotterdam

Belarus, Slovakia, Ukraine, Romania, Finland, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Austria, Greece and Netherlands.

Only three out of a team of 11 reached the podium. Dylan Gibson, six, got two bronze medals in kata and kumite, Luan Veras, 11, won silver in kumite and senior Sam Mra-bet came away with a bronze in kumite.

Tayla did well, just missing out on the bronze medal. She won two recharge fights but lost the last one.

Age is no barrier to stick-fighter Shamim

BY PETER FAULKNER

AT the age of 41, most sportsmen and women are ready to take on less strenuous roles, rather than chase world titles and defy Old Father Time.

Shamim Rahman (pictured) is a real exception – he is a one-man fighting machine who has just taken on the world and won.

Even though age suggests he should be slowing down, this stick fighting star from Lukin Street, Stepney, has sent ripples through the martial arts world.

In a week when Tyson Fury shocked the world of boxing to become world heavyweight champion, and Andy Murray ended 79 years of hurt to bring the Davis Cup to Britain, Shamim didn't just bring one gold medal back from the world championships in Poland – he won four. In fact he won an astonishing 11 trophies and 11 certificates.

In winning the medals and the world title, father-of-four Shamim was also crowned best fighter on the day.

What makes his achievement even more remarkable is that he wasn't competing as part of a Great Britain team.

Shamim was so confident in his own ability that he entered the tournament as an individual.

That shocked rivals from around the globe, even more so because few anticipated that a man of 41 could upset the odds.

Shamim, who fights again in March, teaches every Tuesday (6-8pm) at the Brady Arts and Community Centre in Hanbury Street, Stepney.

He can be reached on 07930 943818.

Wapping flying high as winter break starts

HOCKEY ROUND-UP
BY PETER FAULKNER

Wapping men 2s...5
Chelmsford...3

WAPPING Hockey Club played their last games before the Christmas break and ended 2015's action with 11 of their 17 Saturday teams occupying top-three spots in their respective leagues.

The men's second team hosted a Chelmsford side without a point from 11 outings.

The game followed the same pattern as most matches this season featuring the Wapping team, with the home side firmly on top and dominating possession.

Within five minutes they had the lead. A move started by skipper Charley Wright at right back led to a penalty corner, which midfielder Nick McLaren duly converted.

Soon after, their lead was doubled. Player-of-the-match Sam Philpott found Ray Paulson at the top of the D to smash the ball home.

Wapping took their foot off the gas, but Chelmsford failed to take advantage and Wapping ladies 2s (pictured) were beaten 1-0 at Blackheath while the third team enjoyed a 4-0 win over Romford's first team, Anne Coleman and Liv Cerio getting two goals apiece. The fourth team lost 6-2 at home to Colchester 3s, the 5s team drew 2-2 with Colchester 4s and the 7s team won 2-1 at home to Chelmsford.

within minutes of the second-half starting, they had claimed a third through forward Edward Fry.

However, Wapping then seemed to become complacent and were punished.

A Chelmsford dragflick, clinically executed by ex-

Wapping player Tom Fanger, zipped into the top corner.

Wapping extended the goal gap to three again, as a break-away saw forward Michael Bolle baffle the defence before slotting the ball home.

Back again came Chelmsford and they picked up their second again through another Fanger dragflick.

Nerves were jangling when Fanger completed his hat-trick from a penalty corner.

But the goal produced a response, with Heye Scheftel burying a reverse-stick strike to keep Wapping in second place.

Soccer round-up Potton upset the league leaders

Great Baddow...0,
FC Hamlets...1

FC Hamlets upset the unbeaten league leaders to underline their dramatic improvement.

From being a side that struggled to find a win early in the season, they have put together a run of five unbeaten matches and are now sitting fourth in the Essex Olympian League second division table.

Like recent weeks, this was a match of contrasting halves. Hamlets, playing into the wind first up, struggled from the off and Baddow went close in the first ten minutes when a low angled shot was deflected wide off the Hamlets keeper's foot.

The Hamlets back four held their shape, though, limiting Baddow's chances to set pieces, which were comfortably dealt with.

Player-manager Ashley King might have put Hamlets ahead, but failed to get a proper connection when in the clear.

With the wind clearly affecting the game again in the second half, Hamlets continued to press but the match seemed to be petering out to a goal-less draw.

Then, in the 88th minute, a misplaced square pass 30 yards from the Baddow goalkeeper, was pounced on by Hamlets sub Jack Potten who tucked the ball away to take all three points.

Cows let it slip with seconds to go

Hampton & Richmond...2
Tower Hamlets WFC...2

TOWER Hamlets women brought their recent run of defeats to an end – and were unlucky not to come away with all three points.

The wide pitch and decent playing surface allowed the Cows to settle into a classy looking passing game, dominating possession and creating a number of openings in the first 30 minutes.

The first goal came on the half-hour mark, with Natalie Keating expertly finding Nikita Thomas whose first-time shot found the back of the net.

Holly Boatright added a second after a sweeping team move, to seemingly put them in total control.

But an injury just before the break meant Tower Hamlets, who had no subs, came out for the second half with only ten players.

They fought valiantly, until midway through the half when Hampton scored a set piece.

With the clock ticking down, the referee indicated 60 seconds left. Two minutes later Hampton found the back of the net for the equaliser.

Four-point haul

Sporting Bengal...1
Greenhouse Sports...0

SPORTING Bengal had a reasonable return from two games in quick succession.

At the weekend they hosted Greenhouse Sports at Mile End Stadium and a single goal from Yacine gave them victory to maintain their mid-table spot.

A few days earlier in a mid-week clash, they established a two-goal lead at Southend Manor, finished the game with nine men and allowed the hosts to battle back for a 2-2 draw.

Abdisamad Mohamed and Yaccine Teladjati gave them a half-time cushion, but Manor struck back after the break through Mike Sammet and Isaac Aubyn.

Cookey seals it

London Bari...2
Tower Hamlets FC...0

JUST one point separated the sides at the start, but Bari struck on 15 minutes when Junior Decker evaded his marker.

The conditions were hampering Hamlets although first Sunday Wasiu then Nasser Bello went close to equalising.

Bari were on top in the second half and, after going close several times, Cookey made it 2-0, 15 minutes from time.

EAST London turned on the style at Redbridge Sports Centre in one of their biggest wins of the season.

They were in the zone from the off and never gave their opponents a chance.

Great link play from the backs kept Colchester at bay and Chloe Vaughan almost made it a one-woman performance with four goals while Kate Hendry, playing with a new stick, scored two.

They were supported by Emma Clare who scored with a fine strike from the edge of the circle and Kerry Jacks and Samantha Blundell joining in the goal fest.

West Herts men 2s...2
East London 1s...0

EAST London travelled to Hertford hoping to repeat their home victory against West Herts at the start of the season.

However, they were unable to keep possession or force their style on the home side, and West Herts scored twice from counter attacks in the first half.

East London controlled possession after the break, but could not create any real chances for their forwards.

■ Other highlights: The men's second team had six different scorers in their 6-1 win over Thurrock while Belinda Le Mesurier netted a hat-trick for the ladies' 4s.

Back from the brink

NEWS FROM TOWER HAMLETS COUNCIL AND YOUR COMMUNITY

Lee set for date with destiny

BY PETER FAULKNER

ANDY Lee and Billy Joe Saunders are set to collide in a Christmas showdown.

The pair's long-awaited clash will happen on Frank Warren's Manchester Arena show this Saturday, December 19.

After self-styled Gypsy King Tyson Fury's sensational world heavyweight title victory over Wladimir Klitschko, these two men from the traveller community promise to stage another explosive night.

For 30-year-old Lee it marks the culmination of a real-life Rocky story, and a remarkable turnaround in a career which was on the brink of failure.

Ten months ago, trainer Andy Booth sat him down before his fight with John Jackson and warned Lee that defeat would spell the end of his career.

Not only did the man from Bow win in style, he then went on to Las Vegas to destroy the previously unbeaten Russian

Billy Joe Saunders

Matt Korobov, and a new WBO middleweight champion of the world was crowned.

Lee was brought up on a traveller site in Bow, before moving back to his roots in Limerick.

He boxed at Bethnal Green's Repton Club from the age of eight and signed his first pro contract with American legend Manny Steward in 2005.

Following Steward's death in 2012, Lee returned to London, where he joined up with English trainer Adam Booth.

It was with Booth that he won the WBO belt in 2014, the first member of any traveller community to win a world title. He has lost just two of his 37 fights.

Saunders, from Hatfield, is tutored by east London's top trainer, Jimmy Tibbs.

A former European champion, he is unbeaten in 22 fights, and confident he can end Lee's reign at the top.

"Andy Lee has been in the ring with bigger punchers than me, but not smarter, clever ones. None of them," said Saunders.

"I need that big breakout performance and I know the best time to show it is now."

Saunders suspects that the culture of both fighters could play a big part in the outcome.

"Me and Andy are both from a traveller background," Saunders added.

"So I'm sure that if my gameplan doesn't come off, or his doesn't, we're both going to have to take a chance."
